

Kendall Lott
CEO and President

With over 25 years of experience in the federal government and as a consultant, Kendall's professional background includes government service as a Presidential Management Fellow and as a career civil servant at the Departments of Agriculture and Justice, as well as service as a Peace Corps Volunteer (Micronesia). He has had extended residencies in Jordan, India and Malaysia, doing consulting work for their governments. His professional interests and experiences are in economic analysis of projects, business process reengineering and design, organizational change management, program design, and coaching.

A certified Project Management Professional (PMP®), Kendall volunteered with the Washington DC Chapter of the Project Management Institute (PMIWDC) for over a decade, and was an active member of the board for 8 years, including serving as COO and CEO. In recognition of his work for PMI, he received volunteer leadership awards at the regional and national levels. Kendall is currently the CEO of PM for Change, a nonprofit organization that seeks to engage PMs in skills-based-volunteering with nonprofits, and is the host and producer of the popular project management podcast, PM Point of View®. In 2017, he completed a thru-hike of the 2,189-mile Appalachian Trail.

Kendall is a Gallup certified StrengthFinders® coach. He holds a Master of International Relations from the School of Global Policy and Strategy at the University of California, San Diego, and a Bachelor of Arts in Economics and Political Science from Indiana University, Bloomington.
